It is also the finding of the Legislature that it is a public necessity that the home addresses, telephone numbers, and photographs of current and former investigators and inspectors of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation, the names, home addresses, telephone numbers, and places of employment of the spouses and children of such current or former investigators and inspectors, and the names and locations of schools and day care facilities attended by the children of such current or former investigators and inspectors be made exempt from public record requirements. The Legislature finds that the release of such identifying and location information might place county tax collectors and investigators and inspectors of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation and their family members in danger of physical and emotional harm from disgruntled individuals who have contentious reactions to revenue collection or enforcement actions or child support enforcement actions of a county tax collector, or whose business or professional practices have come under the scrutiny of investigators and inspectors of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation. The Legislature further finds that the harm that may result from the release of such personal identifying and location information outweighs any public benefit that may be derived from the disclosure of the information.
